Introduction

The fulfillment of the obligations stated in the Action Plan for implementation of the priorities listed in the document titled “European Partnership with Bosnia and Herzegovina”, as well as of the obligations stated in the Roadmap on visa-free regime, and the obligations listed in the “Immigration and Asylum Strategy & Action Plan For 2008-2011” relating to education in the fields of visas, borders, immigrations, and asylum in the course of implementation of the Law on Movement and Stay of Aliens and Asylum and its relevant bylaws, requires, among other things, systematic approach to training of civil servants, police officers and public sector employees in the field of migrations.

The systematic approach required that the “Immigration and Asylum Training Program (2009-2011)” was defined, in the form of a document created on the basis of the needs of: the Ministry of Security – Sector for Immigration and Sector for Asylum; Bosnia and Herzegovina Border Police; Service for Foreigners’ Affairs; and Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Bosnia and Herzegovina, with the aim of their successful performance of duties (competences) in the field of migrations. Up until now, the approach to training was mostly such that donors and partners, in line with their missions, defined the topics for training programs in the field of migrations and they were sometimes not concurrent with the priority needs for training of civil servants, police officers and public sector employees.

While thanking their present and potential donors, the Sector for Immigration of the Ministry of Security wanted to change its approach to the training of civil servants, police officers and public sector employees in the field of immigration. With the support received from the International Organization for Migration in Bosnia and Herzegovina, representatives of: the Ministry of Security – Sector for Immigration and Sector for Asylum, Bosnia and Herzegovina Border Police, Service for Foreigners’ Affairs, and Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Bosnia and Herzegovina, compiled this document after holding several consultations in their institutions.

This document provides an insight into the need for the training of civil servants, police officers and public sector employees in the field of immigrations and also enables potential donors and partners in the implementation of the “Immigration and Asylum Training Program (2009-2011)” to obtain the necessary information such as:

- priority training topics,
- training content,
- lists of documents included in the training,
- training goals,
- expected outcomes of the training,

- training indicators,
- type, length and methods of training,
- structure of the participants in the training program - number and level,
- training implementers,
- budget (cost estimates for each individual training),
- success criteria,

which will help them provide the training to public sector employees of: the Ministry of Security – Sector for Immigration and Sector for Asylum, Bosnia and Herzegovina Border Police, Service for Foreigners' Affairs, and Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Bosnia and Herzegovina, thus enabling the employees to acquire the necessary skills and knowledge that are required for efficient performance of duties in the field of migrations.

We believe that such an approach to the training of employees in the field of migrations will contribute to the improvement of the principles of work of civil servants, police officers and public sector employees, such as: efficiency, efficacy, economics, transparency, publicity, professional conduct, legality accountability.

From the "Immigration and Asylum Strategy"

(2008-2011 Action Plan)

Migration is considered to be one of the key global issues at the beginning of the 21st century because there is now more people on the move than ever in human history. Today, 175 million people live outside their country of birth, which accounts for about three percent of the world's population. This means that approximately one out of thirty-five persons in the world is a migrant. When it comes to migrations, Europe used to be an area of emigration in the first half of the 20th century. Its inhabitants migrated to countries in North and South America, Australia and the countries of Asia and Africa which used to be European countries' colonies. In the second half of the previous century and now, Europe is an area of immigration.

All migration flows have been mostly influenced by economic needs. High demand for workforce in developed countries and availability of the workforce in non-developed countries initiated the global workforce migration.

When it comes to its stages, migration in the beginning related to non-qualified and semi-qualified workforce and then reached its full development with the flows of highly skilled workforce. At first, migrations related to individuals (during 1960s and 1970s) and then to family reunions (1980s). In 1990s and in the first decade of the 21st century, there has been a new trend – the one of refugees and asylum (international protections) seekers.

Migration flows are also very much influenced by demographic changes. The global population growth differs between developed countries and developing ones. In developed countries, the current population growth rate is less than 0.3%, while population in the rest of the world has increased almost sixfold. The quick population increase, together with economic difficulties, puts people on the move, while ageing population forces its countries to accept migrants. According to some estimates, the decreasing and ageing population in developed countries will bring about ever greater mobility of people in the next 50 years.

The practice shows that regardless of certain crises that developed countries are occasionally faced with, migrants remain in the countries of destination without wanting to return to their countries of origin.

Bosnia and Herzegovina found itself in migration paths too. During 1970s, it was an emigration country; in late 1990s, it was mostly a transit country, while in the past several years it has been increasingly turning into a country of final destination. Unstable political, security, economic and social environment in the countries that emerged from the breakup of Yugoslavia and in the wider region has resulted, in the past several years, in big migration flows of citizens of neighboring countries into Bosnia and Herzegovina. Even today, when the reasons for such migration flows are (almost) non-existent, there are many persons residing in Bosnia and Herzegovina who were afforded international protection or have legal residence in the country; with some of them being in the country illegally.

Regardless of the way in which migrations happen (be it legal or illegal), they have to be regulated. The regulation of migrations can be achieved through:

- well-defined migration policy,
- planned, reasonable and organized management of migration flows,
- full contribution to regulation of migrations at the regional and wider levels.

The migration policy has to be based on the four fundamental principles:

- legality principles – there has to be a system of measures and activities for efficient management of migrations, so that possibilities are increased for the well-being of both the migrants and the given country, with the simultaneous reduction of illegal migrations and trafficking of humans;
- integration principle – create an environment which will contribute to integration of aliens into society through raising aware of the public and more active role of governmental and non-governmental sectors;
- principle of the security of the country and its citizens – provide protection and possibility for quick response of services responsible for security in the cases of illegal migrations or massive migration flows;
- international cooperation principle – organize dialogue and cooperation with the countries of origin, as well as third countries, so that the migration-related foreign policy can be harmonized and linked with the goals of migration policy.

Planned, deliberate and organized migration management entails supervision of migration flows through measures aimed at supporting legal migrations and undertaking of activities on preventing illegal migrations, trafficking of humans and smuggling, through:

- visa policy,
- integrated border management,
- legal regulation of residence,
- the right to exercising international protection and
- return (readmission).

The contribution of regulating migration at the regional level and further comprises cooperation with the countries in the region and beyond, supervision of efficiency, consistent application of accepted measures, harmonization of goals, mechanisms and outcomes of the migration policy with the aim of constant adjusting to new circumstances and processes.

The immigration and asylum strategy contains an overview of the prior, present and future situation in the field of visa regime management, border, immigration and asylum management; present the results achieved so far; identifies the current problems and limiting factors; defines goals that need to be achieved, as well as the activity plan for realization of goals set in the mentioned areas.

Each of the areas was developed separately, with clearly defined goals and tasks, schedule of activities related to implementation, implementers of activities, possible sources of finances.

The goal is to develop a quality system for the management of borders, visa regime, immigration and asylum system in Bosnia and Herzegovina, pursuant to EU standards, that will enable integration of Bosnia and Herzegovina into the European Union.

Importance of Training

One of the priority tasks in the implementation of the policy, principles and activities of the “Immigration and Asylum Strategy” (2008-2011 Action Plan) is setting up an adequate system of functional training and of civil servants, police officers and public sector employees. Training of staff (the Ministry of Security – Sector for Immigration and Sector for Asylum, Bosnia and Herzegovina Border Police, Service for Foreigners’ Affairs, and Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Bosnia and Herzegovina) in the field of migrations is of special importance having in mind that the country’s independence and process of European integrations create the need for Bosnia and Herzegovina to strengthen its capacities in this sector.

Training is the key instrument of state bodies for education of their personnel and is also an important step for the fulfillment of the obligations stated in the Action Plan for implementation of the priorities listed in the document titled “European Partnership with Bosnia and Herzegovina”, as well as of the obligations stated in the Roadmap on visa-free regime, and the obligations listed in the “Immigration and Asylum Strategy & Action Plan For 2008-2011” relating to education in the fields of visas, borders, immigrations, and asylum in the course of implementation of the Law on Movement and Stay of Aliens and Asylum and its relevant bylaws. That is why it is important and indispensable that civil servants, police officers and public sector employees, who are employed in state bodies dealing with immigrations (the Ministry of Security – Sector for Immigration and Sector for Asylum, Bosnia and Herzegovina Border Police, Service for Foreigners’ Affairs, and Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Bosnia and Herzegovina), are provided an opportunity for training and enhancing their knowledge and skills.

The implementation of the “Immigration and Asylum Training Program (2009-2011)” will include all participants of training in the field of migrations.

Analysis of Current Situation

The Law on Movement and Stay of Aliens and Asylum¹ that entered into force on 14 May 2008 (when compared to the previous 2003 Law on Movement and Stay of Aliens and Asylum) either prescribed new procedures and new mechanisms or introduced certain regulatory changes, and also introduced the obligation of adopting certain number of bylaws. The Law on Movement and Stay of Aliens and Asylum has its prominent place in the field of migrations and it is indispensable that civil servants, police officers and public sector employees are timely and adequately acquainted with the provisions of the aforementioned Law and relevant bylaws.

The training content was determined on the basis of existing and expected needs for education of civil servants, police officers and public sector employees in the field of migrations.

Ministry of Security – Sector for Immigration, serving as a coordinator in the process of creating the “Immigration and Asylum Training Program (2009-2011)”, enabled that the Sector for Asylum, Bosnia and Herzegovina Border Police, Service for Foreigners’ Affairs, and Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Bosnia and Herzegovina state their needs for training in the field of the implementation of the Law on Movement and Stay of Aliens and Asylum and immigration in general.

The training needs assessment encompassed:

- reports on completed activities in connection with expert training of civil servants, police officers and public sector employees in the field of migrations;
- analysis of needs for functional training of civil servants, police officers and public sector employees in the field of migrations;

1 Published in the “Official Gazette of Bosnia and Herzegovina” No 36/08

- analysis of the content of the existing laws which regulate activities of state bodies in the field of migrations.

The training includes studying and application of international documents, laws and bylaws, which either regulate the field of migrations or are a prerequisite for implementation of the mentioned documents.

Training Principles and Goals

The key aspect in the “Immigration and Asylum Training Program (2009-2011)” is the use of modern mechanisms so as to enable those who are employed in the field of migrations to receive adequate and timely training.

Guiding Principles

The civil servants, police officers and public sector employees in state bodies (the Ministry of Security – Sector for Immigration and Sector for Asylum, Bosnia and Herzegovina Border Police, Service for Foreigners’ Affairs, and Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Bosnia and Herzegovina) will be guided by the principles that training is:

1. the right and duty of each civil servant, police officer and public sector employee,
2. a comprising part of the human resources policy and that it serves the interests of both individuals and state bodies,
3. the need to achieve and maintain high standards of the work of employees and state bodies.

Goal

The basic goal of the training of civil servants, police officers and public sector employees is to expand their knowledge of and enhance their personal competence in the implementation of the Law on Movement and Stay of Aliens and Asylum in a way that all civil servants, police officers and public sector employees can give their optimal contribution to achieving the goals of state bodies in the field of immigration; and of professional development and education.

All the topics contained within the “Immigration and Asylum Training Program (2009-2011)” will be elaborated in the Training Curriculum, which will include key legislative issues that have to do with the training, as well as the skills that can be used for enhancement of the training topics. Also, in the course of the implementation of the “Immigration and Asylum Training Program (2009-2011)” the topics can be grouped following: priorities, donors’ recommendations, funds available, and the logical legislative connectedness.

The training implementer has the onus of determining the trainers’ minimum qualifications for the given topic.

The training will include representatives of: the Ministry of Security – Sector for Immigration and Sector for Asylum, Service for Foreigners’ Affairs, Bosnia and Herzegovina Border Police, and Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The number of participants from individual bodies will depend on the scope of competences and application of regulations for each of the topics, i.e. different institutions will have various numbers of participants in the training.

Financial Funds

The funds for the “Immigration and Asylum Training Program (2009-2011)” will be provided from the budgets of the institutions of Bosnia and Herzegovina and of international institutions and organizations.²

Participants In The Implementation Of The Training Program

The implementation of the Training Program will include:

- state bodies’ administrators,
- organizational units’ managers,
- persons in charge of human resources development (training officers),
- civil servants, police officers and public sector employees.

Supervision and Evaluation

Constant communication among all participants in the “Immigration and Asylum Training Program (2009-2011)” is necessary; it relates to assessment of needs for the training of civil servants, police officers and public sector employees. The reports on professional development of all civil servants, police officers and public sector employees, which will include the opinion on training success, will be monitored and discussed by the Coordinating body responsible for supervising the implementation of the “Immigration and Asylum Strategy” and 2008-2011 Action Plan.

² During the making of the “Immigration and Asylum Training Program (2009-2011)” it was not possible to define the budget for each individual training because the following information were not available: venue of the training – Bosnia and Herzegovina (which city or town) or abroad (study trips), renting of premises or usage of existing spaces, participants’ travel costs, accommodation and food costs, the necessary material etc. The necessary amounts will be determined at the moment of the preparations for training depending on the aforementioned parameters.
